MRS. MILLS MAY BE EXHUMED

Planned by Probers of New Brunswick Murders

MOVE OPPOSED BY HUSBAND

Mate of Slain Woman is Again Quizzed

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (United Press) — James Mills today opposed the plan to exhume the body of his wife, who was found murdered in the corpse of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, ten days ago.

Despite his opposition, Prosecutor Beckman, of Somerset-co. and Prosecutor Strickler, of Middlesex-co. conferred here discussing the question of exhuming the body to determine how many bullets struck Mrs. Mills.

It was intimated that the husband's protests would be disregarded if investigators deemed it necessary to have the remains examined again.

Mills was calm and confident today after having been questioned for hours by detectives yesterday. The detectives took turns in questioning him, but were unable to confuse him on any phase of his story that he was at home on the evening his wife and the clergyman were slain near the abandoned Phillips farm two miles from town.

"I am innocent," Mills said on leaving the prosecutor's office.

"They can't hang anything on me."

GIRL WORKS ON CASE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (Special) — Will a 15-year-old girl, bent on avenging the death of her mother, solve the baffling preacher murder mystery which has stumped the leading detectives of the state?

The girl—Charlotte Mills, daughter of the sexton of the Church of St. John the Evangelist—is sure that she will. Since the finding of the body of her mother alongside that of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall in a woods near a deserted farm house on the outskirts of the town, she has been working untiringly in an effort to run down the slayers.

But the authorities haven't given her much encouragement. Neither have they been making much headway in getting to the bottom of the case.

WOMAN SUSPECTED

Who killed them? Why? No one seemed to know. Many were the conjectures but the church people talked reluctantly to the authorities. Charlotte, self-styled flapper, says:

"I think a woman did it; a woman who was very strong."

"My mother was one who, if accused of anything and knew she was innocent, would fight all she could. But she weighed only 118 pounds and was very weak."

"My mom didn't have a chance."

"This woman isn't like ordinary folks. She has funny eyes that make you afraid of her, sort of like a man's."

The girl's suspicions and the reasons for them are known to the authorities. But they are having difficulty in making progress in the case on account of the reluctance of the church members to present information that the authorities believe they should be able to give them.

U. S. REPORTED PLANNING TO ACT IN EAST CONFLICT

Navy Chief on Way to Constantinople, Says Paris Dispatch

DENIED AT WASHINGTON

American Policy is Unchanged, Officials Assert

PARIS. — (Associated Press) — Vice Admiral Andrew T. Long, U. S. N., commander of the American naval forces in European waters, has gone to Constantinople to direct the naval operations should any become necessary in participation with the foreign squadrons, it was stated here today.

Vice Admiral Long's mission, it is explained, is quite apart from that of Rear Admiral M. L. Bristol, the American high commissioner in Turkey, whose political jurisdiction will remain unchanged.

REPORT DENIED

WASHINGTON. — (Associated Press) — Paris news dispatches announcing that Vice Admiral Long of the American navy had gone to Constantinople to direct possible "naval operations" were not understood in official circles here where it was indicated that participation of American warships in any demonstration against the Turks was not a part of the present American policy toward the Near East problem.

At the navy department it was said that so far as the Washington government had been advised, Admiral Long was on board his flagship, the battleship Utah, either at Lisbon or on the way to Gibraltar, where the Utah is due on October 3. He has planned to go to Constantinople later, however, but only for the purpose of observing conditions and cooperating with Rear Admiral Bristol in relief.

POLICY NOT CHANGED
The state department likewise was without official notification of any change in previous plans regarding the disposition of American warships in European waters, and it was said that the policy of this government to confine its Near Eastern activities to relief measures remained unaltered.

Under present circumstances officials here foresee no likelihood that American forces will be used for other than relief purposes unless it becomes necessary to land blue-jackets or marines to guard American lives and property. Even that possibility apparently is looked upon as remote.

It has been the intention of navy department officials to have Admiral Long make his proposed trip to Constantinople on the cruiser Pittsburgh which is due to leave Philadelphia about October 1. Under the plan the admiral was to transfer his flag from the Utah to the Pittsburgh at Gibraltar and then proceed to the Near East for a general inspection tour.

As commander-in-chief of American naval forces in European waters, Admiral Long has wide discretion in deciding upon his movements but it is pointed out that had he transferred his flag to any other vessel than the Utah it would have been necessary for him to report the change immediately to Washington. The destroyer which heretofore accompanied the Utah has notified the department that she is proceeding to Near Eastern waters but it has been ascertained also that she is not flying the flag of the admiral.

RESTAURANT MEN ARE ROBBED

Yeggs Escape With $7,500 in Toledo Hold-up

TOLEDO. — (Associated Press) — Four armed bandits early today overpowered two waitmen at the John Broadway Restaurant and Athletic Club at the Casino, an amusement park just outside of Toledo, and escaped with $7,500 in cash, according to a report to police.

The four men appeared at the restaurant shortly after 6 o'clock and covering James McCreary, restaurant watchman, with pistols, forced him into the basement where he was bound and gagged. John Harloff, Casino watchman, who came to the aid of McCreary was also overpowered and bound. The bandits then blew open the safe in the club rooms and took $4,000 in bills and $3,500 in silver and escaped in an automobile.

Harloff managed to free himself and notified police about an hour later but was able to give only a meagre description of the robbers and although police scoured the neighborhood for several hours no trace of the men was found.

TRIED TO AID IN KIN'S SUICIDE

Sam Pupera's Sister Admits Attempt to Smuggle Pistol

COLUMBUS. — (Associated Press) — Mrs. Josephine Gillette, 1909 Seavest, Cleveland, a sister of Sam Pupera, who was electrocuted at the state penitentiary, May 9, for his part in the Sly-Parmer murder and payroll robbery, today pleaded guilty in common pleas court to carrying concealed weapons and was given a suspended sentence of one year in the Marysville Reformatory for Women.

The charges against Mrs. Gillette resulted in her attempt to smuggle a pistol into the penitentiary to her brother with which to kill himself before the day set for his electrocution, she told the court. Prosecutor King agreed that this probably was her motive.

She was indicted on charges of attempting to aid a prisoner to escape and of carrying concealed weapons. She denied the charge of attempting to aid a prisoner to escape and of carrying concealed weapons. She denied the charge of attempting to aid in the escape of Pupera, but admitted having the pistol in her possession for the purpose of trying to get it to her brother to kill himself.

In court with her were her mother and her three small children, ranging in age from six years to nine months.

HEARING IS ASKED

Italian Seeks to Re-open Divorce Case Begun by Wife

The vacation of a divorce decree obtained by Mrs. Doris Vernon, in common pleas court July 15, is asked in a petition filed Wednesday by Sam Vernon, Toledo, Italian.

Thru his attorney H. A. Ramey, member of the Ohio legislature from Lucas-co. Vernon charges that the decree was obtained without his knowledge, and in violation of an agreement between counsel. He asserts he has a valid defense and demands a hearing.

Mrs. Vernon formerly was Doris Pierce, S. Cole-st.

Mrs. Vernon, an American girl, could not become reconciled to her alien surroundings, she declared. She left Toledo and came to Lima with Elmer, 4, her baby daughter. She made her home with her parents Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Pierce, 351 S. Cole-st.

Vernon followed and spirited the child away, with intention of taking her to Italy, the wife told police at the time. She pursued Vernon to Toledo and obtained custody of little Elmer, in a habeas corpus hearing. The divorce action in Allen-co. came as a close sequel to the preceding events.

BRITISH, TURKS TO CLASH SOON

Conflict Now Believed by Experts to be Inevitable

ARMIES AND FLEETS READY

London Rushes More Troops and Battleships

CONSTANTINOPLE. — (Associated Press) — While the Anatolian cabinet sitting at Smyrna is completing its reply to the allied note, the Nationalist army continues its concentration of troops on the Ismid and Chanak lines. Mustafa Kemal Pasha now has 1,100 men in Kum Kalest, at the mouth of the Dardanelles; 5,000 at Adramytti, fifty miles southeast of Chanak; 10,000 in the intervening Sanjak of Karassi and considerable forces in the other areas.

The Nationalist leader expects these concentrations to be completed by September 30, which date coincides with the time set for the final evacuation of refugees from Smyrna. It is considered significant here that General Nureddin Pasha, military governor of Smyrna, has declared he cannot guarantee the lives of the Christians in Smyrna after that date. This is taken to mean that the Kemalists want to clear decks for action in the event the allies reject the reply.

The British are no less busy strengthening their lines and checking every move made by the Nationalists. Further arrivals of military and naval units are daily augmenting their forces and inversely impairing Mustafa Kemal's chances of successfully attacking the straits.

The sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus are dotted with the most modern warcraft, the concentration rivaling that of the fateful days of the Gallipoli campaign.

The British fleet now includes six dreadnaughts, seven battle cruisers, twenty destroyers and several submarines and giant aircraft carriers. The assembly of this great armada and the increase in the British land forces to upwards of 30,000 men have quieted the frayed nerves of the anxious Christian population of the coast.

CLASH BELIEVED CERTAIN

LONDON. — (Associated Press) — The threatened loss of eastern Thrace, following closely on the defeat of the Greek army in Anatolia, has precipitated a crisis in Athens.

In addition to Eren Keul and Kum Kalest, the Kemalists are in possession of Bigla. A special dispatch says occupation of the latter place was accompanied by the massacre of the entire Greek and Armenian population, numbering about 900.

The reply of the Ankara government to the joint allied note, outlining the conditions under which a peace conference could be held, is anxiously awaited but it is feared that even an acceptance would not relieve the present situation to any great degree as the Turks are understood to be prepared to demand freedom of military action during the conference.

The British cabinet ministers and defense experts are meeting daily for consultation.

One battalion each of the Cold Stream guards, Royal Fusiliers and Rifle Brigade are leaving Aldershot today for the Near East, and other troops will follow Saturday. The Highland Light Infantry and the King's Scottish Borderers are on the way from Alexandria to Chanak, the main British position on the Dardanelles.

Naval reinforcements continue to stream toward the straits, some of the heavier units including the dreadnaughts, Revenge, Ramillies, Centurion and Malaya and the aircraft carrier Vindictive. The Woolwich arsenal is busy turning out ammunition.

ATTACK WAITED

CONSTANTINOPLE. — (Associated Press) — A wireless message sent to Chanak when the Turkish Nationalists occupied Kum Kalest and other points in the neutral zone was all that prevented an outbreak of hostilities between the British and Turks. It is feared.

Colonel Shuttleworth, commanding the British force in Chanak, was about to open fire on the advancing Kemalist cavalry squadrons when he received an urgent radio from Brigadier General Harrington in Constantinople instructing him to suspend the attack until all peaceful measures were exhausted.

In consequence a British officer was sent to the Kemalist lines under a white flag to inform the Nationalist commander that unless he created the British would open fire. After further parleys the Turks were given 48 hours in which to withdraw beyond the neutral zone.

NEGRO GUNMAN IS NEAR DEATH

Slayer of Robert Halloran in Dangerous Condition

OTIS HINES, 24, negro waiter who shot and fatally wounded Robert Halloran on the night of September 9, may never come to trial. He was taken to city hospital Tuesday night for an emergency operation.

Hines was slated to come before the Allen-co. grand jury Wednesday, and it was expected that he would appear to testify in his own behalf. His condition was such, however, that Dr. Herbert A. Thomas, who was called in Tuesday afternoon, declared that the negro must go under the knife at once.

Hines concealed his true condition from Sheriff C. W. Baxter until his condition became serious. He made several requests for medical aid, but insisted that he had only a cold.

Examination Tuesday showed his entire system is undermined by a dangerous infection.

Dr. Thomas declined to discuss the case Wednesday. Sheriff Baxter said that Hines will not go before the grand jury at present. Reports from the hospital indicate his condition is critical at present.

JACKSON ELECTED KIWANIS HEAD

Lima Man Wins in Hard Fight for Ohio Honors

One of the hardest fought battles ever seen in a Kiwanis convention resulted in a victory for Lima Kiwanis. Walter S. Jackson, Lima attorney, at the state meeting in Cincinnati Wednesday, Jackson was elected governor by a vote of 85 to 83.

Pandemonium reigned in the convention hall at Cincinnati when the official vote was announced and Jackson was shown leading Frank C. Poling, present district governor, by two votes.

From the opening moments of the convention the local Kiwanians kept moving the strongest lobby ever seen at a convention and the victory was achieved only after a tremendous fight.

As soon as the convention city for next year is chosen the 1922 convention will end. The victorious members of the Kiwanis club are expected to get home late Wednesday.

Following the election of Jackson by the two-vote margin, the delegates made the election unanimous.

Constantine Quits Throne In Favor of Crown Prince George When Strong Forces of Revolutionists Begin Movement on the Capital City

His Declaration of Martial Law Fails to Halt Uprising Brought About by Crushing Defeat at Hands Of Turks In Thrace

ATHENS. — (United Press) — King Constantine has abdicated in favor of Crown Prince George, it was officially announced today.

In a message to the Greek people the king stated that for the national interest, peace and unity he had abdicated in favor of the crown prince.

The king, when faced by a revolt in the army, following defeat by Turkey, tried to save his tottering throne by the declaration of martial law, but this was of no avail and he stepped out in favor of his son.

Constantine relinquished his throne when reports were received that transports loaded with mutinous Greeks were speeding toward the capital.

It was believed that bloodshed would have resulted if the king had held on to his fast diminishing power much longer.

The abdication of Constantine followed closely the resignation of the cabinet.

In case Prince George refuses the throne—and it has been rumored lately that he has a aversion to sitting on the Greek throne—the next in line is Prince Christopher, who is now in Paris with his wife, the Princess Anastase, who formerly was Mrs. William B. Leeds, widow of the deceased American tin plate king, who poured great wealth into the cause of promoting Greek national unity.

In this event, an American woman would sit on the ancient throne of Greece.

BEGINNING OF REVOLUTION

The revolution of the Greek armies had its inception in the islands of Mytilene and Chios among the soldiers and thousands of refugees from Asia Minor. The order for the disarmament of the troops was the immediate cause of the outbreak.

The soldiers who expected to keep their guns for trophies, refused to give them up on command of officers.

The movement spread like an epidemic in the navy. Seamen refused to obey the orders issued by admirals who soon found themselves powerless to maintain discipline.

A British naval captain, who arrived here from the island of Mytilene stated that all officers who refused to obey the commands of their men were locked up.

VENEZUELOS MAY RETURN

In case that none of the Greek royal family is acceptable to the revolutionists—which is entirely within the realm of possibility—Eleutherios Venezelos who governed the country as prime minister before King Constantine was recalled in the elections of November, 1920, looms as the probable ruler.

It is ascertained that Venezelos, who exiled himself from his native land after he was defeated at the polls and who is now in Paris, will not return to Greece as a member of the government unless the royal family is banished.

Venezelos, in exile, recently gave out a statement that he would never return as long as the line of Constantine is on the throne.

The Greeks, thru the victories of Mustafa Kemal's Turkish national forces, have lost all that Venezelos gained for his country during the world war.

LOSSES OF GREECE

It was he who induced the allies who drew up the treaty of Sevres, to turn over to Greece the territory of Thrace and to make other concessions.

The losing of all this territory precipitated the crisis which drove Constantine from the throne.

In stepping out the king obeyed the mandate served on him by Colonel Jonass who was attached to the Greek armies in the islands of Chios and Mytilene.

Prince George, if he accepts the throne offered him by his father, must at once assume a stern policy in dealing with the Turks.

The revolutionists made the flat and urgent demand that reinforcements be rushed to Thrace in order to prevent Turkish occupation of the territory.

SEVERE ABDICATION
Constantine's abdication was the second time he ascended the throne with the avowed hope of reestablishing the ancient Hellenic empire on March 18, 1913.

He was crowned upon the assassination of George I his father.

In June 1917, at the demand of the allies, then including Russia, he left his throne and was taken with his family to Switzerland on a British war ship, where he remained until the 1920 elections ousted premier Venezelos, the "Iron man" of the rocks.

"Tino" as the exiled king was called, was invited to return, the whim of the public making Venezelos a political exile. Constantine seized the opportunity, he believed, of wiping out all question as to his right to the throne and demanded a plebiscite. It was held and resulted in an invitation to "Tino" to return by almost a 100 per cent vote.

At his return he pledged himself again to restore the empire to the glory of the Hellenes, and until the late disaster of his army by the Turks, had increased Greek territory between 50 and 60 per cent. Constantine's greatest trouble as a ruler sprang from his marriage to Princess Sophia, the ex-emperor's sister. During the war he was charged with being influenced toward the Germans and this fact more than anything else was responsible for his forced abdication in 1917.

BEER CASE TAKEN TO HIGH COURT

Fight Against Ohio Vote is Continued by Hawke

COLUMBUS. — (Associated Press) — The state supreme court was appealed to today in an effort to prevent the proposed light wine and beer amendment coming to a vote of the people at the November election.

George S. Hawke, Cincinnati dry leader, who yesterday was denied a writ of injunction by the Franklin-co. appellate court to prevent Secretary of State Smith from putting the proposal on the ballot, filed an appeal today in the supreme court.

Hawke contends that the petitions are invalid in that more than half the signatures are signed with an indelible pencil whereas ink should have been used. Secretary Smith held the signing with an indelible pencil met the requirements.

In refusing an injunction yesterday the court of appeals held that Hawke, thru the secretary of state as a public officer, had had his day in court in the secretary's defense against the mandamus action which resulted in him being ordered by the highest tribunal to place the amendment on the ballot, and that for an inferior court to issue an order contrary to that made by a superior court would be bad law and breed disrespect for law enforcement.

The court will hear Hawke's motion at nine o'clock tomorrow morning.

MUST PAY $2,004

Findings Returned Against Officials of "Speeders Court"

COLUMBUS. — (United Press) — Finding for recovery of $2,004 is made against George C. French, justice of the peace in Wayne-twp., Montgomery-co. and Hayes Reed and William Gruber, constables, who conducted a way-side "speeders court," in the report filed with State Auditor Tracy today by State Examiner Clifton.

More than 20 persons paid fines and costs in French's roadside court, according to the report, and only six cases were entered in the docket, as required by law. The report holds that where the cases were not docketed, no affidavits were filed and no warrants issued, no service was rendered and neither the magistrate nor constable were entitled to fees.

Payment of the $2,004, of which $989 is against French, $735 against Reed and $280 against Gruber, must be made to the township treasury for repayment to the persons from whom collected, French, according to the report, has already paid the amount found due from him, and Gruber has said he will pay. Reed, the report states, says he will not pay.

$500,000 SCHOOL PLAN LAUNCHED

State Orders Necessitate Three More Elementary Buildings

BOND ISSUE TO BE ASKED

Enrollment Exceeds Capacity of Present Structures

Mandatory orders from the Ohio department of inspection, resulting from an investigation by T. P. Kearns, chief deputy, in May, 1921, and increased enrollment this term has caused the Lima board of education to launch a $500,000 building program.

Erection of three new elementary schools, additions to South High and Franklin buildings and procuring of such other additional sites as necessary to meet present and future needs will be discussed at a special meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

The board met in regular session Tuesday night and at adjournment Ralph Austin, chairman of the building committee, moved for the special session. City Solicitor Paul Landis held a short preliminary conference with the board and board immediately to draw up a resolution to submit a bond issue to Lima voters November 7.

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED

Not heating, ventilating and sanitation in several grade schools will also be provided for.

One of the new elementary schools will be located south of Kibbey-st to accommodate increased enrollment in south Lima caused by rapid growth of that section. A second will be constructed on the Fairview site at the southwest corner of the W. Elm and S. McDonnell st. Intersecting at a third west of James-st according to plans.

The addition to South High is necessary because the enrollment of 1,100 there is 300 greater than the capacity contemplated when the building was constructed four years ago. The annex at the Franklin school will be used as a junior high school.

Faced with serious problems this year because the enrollment of 7,933 the opening week was fully 16 percent greater than four years ago, when at least new buildings were constructed to accommodate a capacity enrollment, the board of education hopes to get by this term.

MANDATE PERSISTENT

The unyielding mandate from the state department can no longer be postponed, it was concerned, despite shifts and utilization of every available basement room. The inspectors provide that each child must have 250 cubic feet of breathing space and since measurements of every schoolroom in the city were taken the board must adhere strictly to regulations.

Kearns declares in his report that owing to natural growth in population there is an average annual net excess of 300 pupils reflected in great congestion at seven schools. All schools here are more or less overcrowded, he says.

The building policy of the board is lauded by Kearns, who says the high schools are splendid examples of architecture and utility and the old elementary buildings are structurally sound, providing a fine foundation for improvements.

Definite figures on the present enrollment are not available but will be supplied next week when teachers report for September. An increase of 400 over the first week's attendance is expected. Most of this number will be secured thru a round-up by the truancy department.

USE BASEMENTS

Basement rooms are now in use at the Central, Franklin, Whittier and Garfield buildings and outside of great effort, the attendance per room in the elementary rooms held to 50 and in the high schools to 30, according to Superintendent J. F. Collins.

The proposed bond issue, which will if passed, add one mill to Lima's school tax burden, will be the first in seven years to be submitted to voters.

The present bonded indebtedness of schools here is low in comparison to cities in the same class as Lima. Lima's indebtedness is less than $500,000, while Springfield has one of $8,000,000 and the in the other first ten cities of Ohio are correspondingly large, figures supplied by Collins indicate.

DR. GOSSARD SPEAKS TO LIONS ON CHINESE LIFE

Dr. Earl Gossard of Foo Chow, China, spoke briefly before the Lions club Wednesday noon on phases of Chinese life. Owing to a difference in time the speaker did not reach the limelight in time to give his intended address, which will be given at a later date.

Dr. Gossard has been in the medical service in China for the last fourteen years. His former home is in Harlow where he is now living until he returns to his post.

Joseph Carr, one of the principals in the Johnny Jones company at the Orpheum this week, entertained the Lions with songs and monologues. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Hobart.

The rehabilitation committee announced that plans were being formulated for a big clinic for cripples Tuesday, October 17th, with a noted physician from Chicago in charge.

The club voted to give a dinner for all attending the clinic, in the evening.

TAX MEASURES DISCUSSED BY EXPERTS AT MEETING

Tax payers of Allen and adjoining counties met in the chamber of commerce auditorium Wednesday afternoon for a discussion of the tax amendments to be considered at the November election.

C. A. Dyer, secretary of a tax organization, O. E. Bradute president of the Ohio farm bureau, and A. R. Wood, publicity director, attended the meeting.

Some confusion was seen as the meeting had originally been announced for 10 a. m. Central time. As it was the meeting did not begin until 1 p. m. Central time.

SPEAKERS AT MEETING SATURDAY

Dr. C. L. Goodell

Dr. J. M. Bader

Members of a group of executive secretaries of national evangelistic commissions of various protestant churches, will be in Lima Saturday to address meetings of church workers here.

Dr. J. M. Bader of the Church of Christ and Dr. C. L. Goodell, evangelistic secretary of the Federated Council of Churches, are two of the group to speak here.

"MURDERED MAN" IS FOUND JUST IN TIME TO AVERT "LEGAL MURDER"

By ALEXANDER HERMAN

Innocent men have been convicted themselves of murder. Having confessed to crimes which they did not commit, they have been declared "guilty" and sentenced to die. By a lucky turn, some of them have been saved from the death penalty, but others—who know?

The most famous of these cases is that of the Boorn brothers in Vermont.

Stephen and Jesse lived in Manchester together with a brother-in-law named Russell Colvin, who was a bit eccentric.

One day they had a quarrel and Colvin disappeared.

Months and years passed—and no explanation was made of the absence. The neighbors began to talk. Some of them recalled that the Boorn had said that they had put Colvin "where the potatoes would not freeze."

ALIBI BROTHERS

Children found a dilapidated hat which was recognized as the one Colvin wore on the day of his disappearance. A dog dug up some bones. An uncle of the boys had a dream in which the missing man came to him and told of being murdered. A barn was mysteriously burned. Feeling against the brothers was aroused.

Stephen was out of the state, but Jesse was arrested.

In jail he confessed that his brother told him of killing Colvin with a blow on the head. Stephen has brought home. He denied his brother's statement. But it was used against him.

Both men were sentenced to be hanged.

The case seemed so hopeless that Stephen confessed the crime in the expectation of mercy from the court. It was of no avail. But Jesse's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

DENY CONFESSIONS

The brothers then told their attorney that their confessions were false.

As a last resort, they began advertising in the newspapers.

A farmer in New Jersey read the item. He told a neighbor who recognized the published description as that of a man living with his brother-in-law in Dover.

He communicated with the lawyers.

They found the man. It was Colvin.

He was brought back just in time to save Stephen from the scaffold.

Months and years passed—and no explanation was made of the absence. The neighbors began to talk. Some of them recalled that the Boorn had said that they had put Colvin "where the potatoes would not freeze."

ALIBI BROTHERS

Children found a dilapidated hat which was recognized as the one Colvin wore on the day of his disappearance. A dog dug up some bones. An uncle of the boys had a dream in which the missing man came to him and told of being murdered. A barn was mysteriously burned. Feeling against the brothers was aroused.

Stephen was out of the state, but Jesse was arrested.

In jail he confessed that his brother told him of killing Colvin with a blow on the head. Stephen has brought home. He denied his brother's statement. But it was used against him.

Both men were sentenced to be hanged.

The case seemed so hopeless that Stephen confessed the crime in the expectation of mercy from the court. It was of no avail. But Jesse's sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

DENY CONFESSIONS

The brothers then told their attorney that their confessions were false.

As a last resort, they began advertising in the newspapers.

A farmer in New Jersey read the item. He told a neighbor who recognized the published description as that of a man living with his brother-in-law in Dover.

He communicated with the lawyers.

They found the man. It was Colvin.

He was brought back just in time to save Stephen from the scaffold.

Stephen and Jesse lived in Manchester together with a brother-in-law named Russell Colvin, who was a bit eccentric.

One day they had a quarrel and Colvin disappeared.

"OCEANS OF LOVE SENT GREASY"

This Is Defense Attorney's Claim in Murder Case

"KISS ON EVERY WAVE"

Declares Prosecutor Personally Interested in Slain Girl

(By LUCILLE F. SAUNDERS)

MINEOLA, N. Y.—(United Press)

—William B. Greasy, charged with the murder on June 23 last, of Edith Lavo, Freeport school teacher, was pictured as "the Kentucky sweetheart" to whom Miss Lavo sent "oceans of love with a kiss on every wave," when Henry A. Unterhart, opened for the defense today.

Previously state's attorneys had described him as a man for whom Miss Lavo had nothing but hatred.

Further sensation was created when Unterhart charged that Assistant Prosecutor Alvin Edwards was carried away by his emotions in the case because he was a friend of the dead woman.

He advanced this charge with the statement that Miss Lavo had frequently visited the Edwards family, had attended dances and dinners with them and had accompanied them to a Harvard football game.

"There is something more than a disinterested attitude on the part of the assistant prosecutor," the attorney for the defense said.

FRIENDSHIP TRACED

Unterhart traced the friendship of Greasy and Miss Lavo from the time they met thru a matrimonial correspondence agency until the girl's death. In the summer of 1920, according to Unterhart, Greasy spent $2 to join a "correspondence club" for one year. The first letter he received as the fruit of his investment was from Miss Lavo who addressed him as "dear sir" and told him his name had been furnished her by the agency as a "gentleman recommended by the club as having matrimonial intentions."

The correspondence ripened quickly into friendship during the summer months and in the fourth letter Miss Lavo addressed him as "Dear Billy."

Attempts were made by Prosecutor Edwards to impeach the testimony of Dr. William H. Runcie, Freeport, N. Y. health officer who was called by the defense as a witness.

Dr. Runcie had testified that he was called to the room of Miss Lavo ten minutes after she had been shot. A gun, testified the physician, was found near Miss Lavo's right hand.

Edwards, by his line of questioning, sought to establish that Dr. Runcie had removed the bullet from Miss Lavo's head and had plugged up the wounds. The doctor stated he had done this on instructions from the coroner.

PRICE ON HEAD FOR 50 YEARS

LEXINGTON, Ky.—John A. Geary was born in Limerick. He learned rebellion and to talk at the same time. As a boy he came to Kentucky; then returned to Ireland to organize Fenian troops. Hunted by English detectives, he escaped only by them into the sea from the gauntlet of the ship on which he was getting away again for the United States.

During the Civil War he fought with the Confederacy.

In 1870 he joined in the Fenian uprising in Canada.

The Canadian rebellion failed, and settling down in Lexington, he became one of Kentucky's rich men.

For 50 years the British government has kept a price on his head. Now, with the establishment of the Irish Free State it is lifted at last. So Geary is going back to tread the "old soil" once more. It will be but a visit, however. This country is his home.

13,000 BILLS OFFERED IN LAST CONGRESS

WASHINGTON—More than 13,000 bills—13,711 by actual count—of all sorts and descriptions were introduced in the house since the sixty-seventh congress went to work in April, 1921. Clerks checking up today found that of this number 1,057 were passed.

In the sixty-sixth congress 15,492 bills were presented and 734 of these became laws.

"Anybody can throw a bill in the hopper," said a veteran legislator, "but it takes a wise man to put it thru the mill."

REGULATING FLAPPER EASY—IF YOU KNOW HOW, SAYS COLLEGE DEAN

MISS JEAN HAMILTON

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(Special)

—As the new dean of women in the University of Michigan, Miss Jean Hamilton finds herself in the position of adviser, mentor, and first friend to hundreds of impressionable college girls.

It goes without saying that she has ideas about flappers. One of them is that "must" and "must not" are words that seldom should be utilized by a woman in her position.

"Young people resent the common criticisms of their elders because the elders often have so little sense of the relative importance of things," says she.

"Eyebrow pencils and lipstick aren't moral issues. So why waste ammunition on little rabbits when you might need it later for big game? All too often when elder persons lay down the law for the young women to follow blindly, their laws are based on personal likes and dislikes instead of real moral foundations. If I succeed in getting across to my girls an idea that is four square to the world, it is because the idea itself possesses authority rather than I."

Jean Hamilton is good to look at. Her hair is soft and brown. Her eyes are those of a woman who understands the complexities of others. And when her face is lighted by her smile, the beholder instinctively knows that Jean Hamilton is not one of those who have "so little sense of the relative importance of things."

Miss Hamilton was graduated from Vassar in 1900, receiving an M. A. from the same college a year later, after which she became executive secretary of the National League of Girls' Clubs, where she gained training and experience for her new position here.

BITTER BATTLE SEEN IN DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—The opening of the Democratic state convention tomorrow gives promise of a bitter battle for the gubernatorial nomination between the forces supporting former Governor Alfred E. Smith and those urging the nomination of William R. Hearst. Both factions thus far have adopted an aggressive attitude.

Supporters of former Governor Smith claim 292 delegates up state. There are 724 delegates to the convention and 368 are needed to nominate. Thus Greater New York, potential observers pointed out, holds the balance of power. Both Smith and Hearst adherents are apparently confident.

"WORK OF ARMS MEET SCRAPPED"

Conference Made Useless, Democratic Chiefs Declare

"PACT KILLED" BY G. O. P.

Administration Hit for Not Wrecking Ships

COLUMBUS—(Associated Press.)

—State Democratic leaders view the announcement from Washington that the scrapping of naval armaments has been halted and further work postponed indefinitely as a "bad blow for Ohio Republican leaders," a statement issued from state Democratic headquarters today said.

"It is recalled," the statement said, "that Colonel Carmel A. Thompson told Ohio men and women scores of times concerning the great accomplishments for world peace that resulted from the disarmament conference. Now the work of the conference itself is scrapped and the power pact has come to naught."

"One more excuse of the Harding-Thompson group has been shattered. It admits failure in foreign affairs, as it already has confessed that the best it can do at home is Newberry, 90 cent wheat, unemployment, a robber tariff and hard times. The last prop is gone."

"By comparison the Davis administration, with all its scandals, is almost an asset."

OTHER FAILURES

"Failure of other parties to the power pact to reduce armaments as agreed and the Near East war are factors responsible for the situation. Failure of France and Italy to ratify the terms of the Washington conference also added to the distrust of the administration and while a few battleships of obsolete type have been dismantled, work of reconstruction is being rushed on others."

"With the announcement that England may be compelled to withdraw from the disarmament agreement and that no more has been made by the British for the reduction of his fleet, the treaty hailed as an assurance of world peace has become merely a scrap of paper."

COURT ASKED TO BAR TAX VOTE

Injunction Against Amendment on Ballot Sought

COLUMBUS—(Associated Press.)

—Attorney M. E. Thrallkill of Columbus today filed a petition in the Franklin-co. common pleas court asking that Secretary of State Smith be enjoined from placing the proposed classification taxation amendment on the November election ballot.

Besides pleading insufficiency of petitions because many of the signatures were written with an indelible pencil, Mr. Thrallkill asserts the proposed amendment in itself is unconstitutional in that an attempt is being made to amend the constitution thru the initiative and referendum while the initiative and referendum specifically provided that its authorities should never be used to obtain classification of property.

FRELINGHUYSEN NOMINATED

Faces Fight in Senate Race Against Edwards

NEWARK, N. J. — (Associated Press) — United States Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, friend of President Harding and one of the administration leaders in congress, was renominated by the Republicans of New Jersey yesterday in a sweeping victory of more than two to one over George L. Record, a Jersey City lawyer.

The senator carried twenty counties with little effort and after a hard struggle apparently had pulled thru today in Mercer-co by about 2,000 votes. Returns this forenoon from 2,054 of the 2,464 districts in the state gave him 146,933 votes against 69,922 for Record, a lead of 77,011.

Senator Frelinghuysen took Hudson-co with Jersey City, his opponent's home, by almost 3 to 1, upsetting predictions.

The senator waged his campaign on two main issues, prohibition and the tariff. He did not discuss the soldier bonus, against which he voted. And he rarely answered Record's charge that he was sympathetic with communists.

OPPOSED BY EDWARDS
In the November elections, Senator Frelinghuysen will fight it out at the polls with Governor Edward J. Edwards, the Democratic nominee for United States senator. As Governor, Edwards is the champion of the "wets," New Jersey voters are assured of a warm contest on the prohibition issue.

Most of the Republican congressmen who were opposed in yesterday's battle seemed today to have been victorious over non-organization candidates.

Neither Democrats nor Republicans had a contest for the gubernatorial nomination. The Republicans nominated State Senator William N. Runyon for governor and the Democrats nominated Judge George S. Sizler.

The Rev. Warren T. Coon, army chaplain during the war, won the Republican nomination for congressman in the eighth district from Representative Herbert W. Taylor in a tight contest. With only a few districts missing, the clergyman had 8,759 votes to 6,805 for Taylor.

Representative Francis F. Patterson, Jr., was renominated by the Republicans in the first district. Representative Randolph Perkins also was renominated. He defeated former Congressman John R. Ramsey of Hackensack for the Republican nomination by about 4,000 votes.

More than a score of witnesses still must testify in cases. Additional time has been consumed by the jury in listening to evidence in cases filed direct.

Among the cases which the jury heard testimony on Wednesday, were those of Jess V. McClure, charged with a statutory crime, and Mrs. Francis Tabler, whose indictment as keeper of a disreputable resort is sought.

Liquor cases which were brought to the attention of the jury, may result in wholesale arrests.

EMBARGO MAY AID COAL SUPPLY

Lima to Profit as Result of Proposed B. & O. Action

STRIKE OF SAILORS CAUSE

Shipments to Lake May be Diverted by Road

Freer movement of coal thru this portion of Ohio and a resultant alleviation of the threatened dearth of fuel here, is anticipated as the result of the announcement Wednesday that the B. & O. railroad is contemplating an embargo on coal shipments to lake ports.

Their consideration of the proposed limitation on coal shipments is said to have come as the result of the approaching strike of lake sailors.

Should the sailors strike, B. & O. shipments of coal would be tied up at lake ports.

Instead of permitting this to happen, officials of the road propose to stop lake shipments of coal until the strike is over, thus permitting freer movement of fuel for inland use.

WELCOMED IN LIMA

The announcement is welcomed in Lima as a possible solution of the fuel problem here.

"Such an embargo," L. B. Colbert, B. & O. freight agent here declared, "will permit the freer transportation of coal for commercial use. We carry an enormous amount of coal for lake ports. In the event that shipments to the lake ports are denied, it opens up a new portation for."

The coal situation in Lima will be greatly relieved by such an embargo as the belief here. Fueling supplies in the hands of re- dealers and factories will be an opportunity to grow back to normal. Shipments of fuel into this city, it is predicted, will mount to normality.

The embargo order is being anxiously awaited here.

WILL PLACE EMBARGO

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—(Associated Press).—The Baltimore and Ohio railway today will declare an embargo upon coal shipments to lake ports according to information obtained in authoritative sources here today.

The contemplated action, it was said, is due to the approaching strike of lake sailors, which has already begun to take effect, with vessel men being ordered to their ships at various ports.

It was said that the Baltimore and Ohio already has 7,500 cars of coal at a point of local while on nearly all railways more coal has been shipped to lake ports than the steamships can handle even under normal lake conditions.

The Baltimore and Ohio today issued an order placing the embargo which has been in force against less than carload shipments on the main line east.

The coming embargo on lake shipments, it was said, will insure a larger supply of coal for domestic and industrial purposes in the east and middle west.

POLICE SCOOP UP EVIDENCE

Criminal Breaks Bottles as Officers Arrest Him

Little more than a gill of what is believed to be illicit liquor, scooped up from the street by Lima policemen after it escaped from broken bottles will be the principal evidence against H. R. Crumrine, 26, 220 S. Central-av, charged with possession of illicit liquor.

Crumrine was arraigned before Judge Jackson Wednesday in police court and pleaded not guilty to the charge. His trial was set for Friday. His bond was fixed at $1,000.

Police investigating complaints from Crumrine as he was leaving his home Tuesday night. They attempted to place him under arrest and to confiscate bottles said to have been seen in his possession. Crumrine was moving them into an automobile parked in front of his home, they said.

As they approached, the officers reported, Crumrine dashed the bottles to the street.

One of the officers scooped up a quantity of the liquid escaping from the bottles and brought it to headquarters. The other took Crumrine into custody.

Originally, charges of destroying evidence and breaking glass on the street were placed against Crumrine. Examination of the liquid brought to headquarters by the officers, however, led to the charge being changed to possession of illicit liquor, they said.

BRINGS BUG TO WIPE OUT MOTH

WASHINGTON — Antateles fulvipes is here from Japan. Suffice it to say that Antateles fulvipes is an insect. It is not here in large numbers yet—a few thousands only. These thousands, however, are counted on to increase and multiply.

Antateles fulvipes was brought to America by Dr. J. N. Summers of the Bureau of Entomology.

To the doctor was assigned the task of finding a way to exterminate the gypsy moth. He hunted over many parts of the earth for several years before locating Antateles fulvipes. The latter, he says, will be both the gypsy moth and the New England farmers.

In the past, such experiments have not always ended satisfactorily, the insects imported into the country to exterminate certain pests having proved, in the long run, to be worse pests than the pests they exterminated. This will not be the case, Dr. Summers says, with Antateles fulvipes.

BRITISH SLEUTH RIVALS YANK

George Nicholls, the Izzy Einstein for Johnny Bull

BY MILTON BRONNER

LONDON — (Special).—England's Sherlock Holmes is a regular Izzy Einstein.

He looks the part of anything—but that of a detective.

Yet there is scarcely a big murder, important mystery or fraud case here in which George Nicholls isn't called to aid in solving.

Quiet in manner, good looking, a dandy in dress, he comes swaggering down the street a typical English dandy. On his way back he may be bold, overbearing, unkept, disreputable looking foreigner.

MADE CHIEF INSPECTOR

On a quiet, quick change of disguise and fast work are all in the day's work for this young sleuth who is the brains of Scotland Yard. For his remarkable success in rounding up England's worst criminals he has just been made chief inspector of the central office, which is the most important branch of the government investigation service.

It took Nicholls 23 years of hard plugging to get to this high office, but he got there because he is known as a thinker.

While others talked and guessed, he thought and solved the puzzling mysteries.

During the war, disguised as a German, he broke up the activities of a dangerous group of enemy agents who were spies or saboteurs.

AN EXPERT ACCOUNTANT

Having cleaned them up he went after a gang of cocaine peddlers who were selling "snow" to British colonial troops quartered near London. Dressed as a dupe officer, who thought more about the fit of his coat and the polish of his boots than about the war, he worked among these men until he rounded them all up.

An expert in accounting Nicholls has recently been devoting himself to digging up irregularities in departmental accounts.

Altho he has been in many scenes, he has always succeeded in getting out of them.

By using his brains.

HAPPINESS COMES THRU GRIEF

Japanese Prima Donna Shatters Tradition to Attain Ambition

IS SOCIALLY OSTRACISED

Conjugal Relations Interfered With by Her Career

(BY JOHN O'DONNELL)

NEW YORK. — (Special). — She says she is the happiest woman in the world and the tell story of grief and domestic trouble that would give another woman cause for perpetual self-pity.

In her native land she is socially ostracised. Her family has witnessed her world-wide success without enthusiasm. Her husband's family bitterly condemn her. Her husband, whom she left in Tokio, made an unsuccessful attempt to prevent her from continuing her stage career.

Speaking slowly, as if flummoxed over a pile of unfamiliar nouns and verbs, Mine, Tamaki Miura, Japanese prima donna told how she struggled through the unpopularity of an opposition undreamed of by an American girl until she could truthfully say, "I am the happiest woman in Japan, in the whole Orient, in the wide world."

SETS P RECEDENT

Mine, Miura's struggle gives Japanese women a precedent. By shattering the tradition that a wife is disgraced for a woman to marry anywhere except in her own home and for a husband's entertainment, she has opened a new future for her countrywomen.

And now the plump little iconoclast from the Orient is appy.

"When I sang in the United States, in Europe, in South America—there is a fresh happiness—so thing I feel when I see my audiences. If I do not have this happiness, I die. I cannot have this happiness if I stay in Japan and there hang only in my own house."

She capped her two small hands. "It is in this that I wanted to put me. Shut up in a little box. My husband and my husband's family all say it is a dishonor to live before the audience. I must come back to Tokio, they tell me. But you know, I can't really can't."

Mine Miura has been married for ten years, her marriage taking place two years before she made her debut in London at the farewell concert of Adelina Patti in 1914.

"What about your husband?"

"He has been very difficult. He knows how I love to sing and I told him I could come back to Japan every year. But he hates to his mother and father who believe it is a dishonor to be on the stage and so he wants me to stay at home. SINGING TO ROYALTY."

"But when I made my debut I knew I could never live without the happiness of singing before an audience. The night in London I sang before the king and queen. First I sang from Rigoletto and then two Japanese songs. Mine. Patti kissed me after the concert."

"It was the first kiss I had ever received in my life. We do not kiss in Japan. My husband would be angry if I tried to kiss him."

"My mind is changing from Japanese to American. I like to live in America but"—she placed her hand over her heart—"I can't go back to Tokio. It would kill me to do without my one great joy in life—my happiness in singing before my audiences."

TIERNAN CASE IN JUDGE'S HANDS

Arguments in South Bend Paternity Suit Finished

VERDICT IS DUE SATURDAY

Both Sides Plan Appeal to Higher Court

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (Associated Press). — With hearings in the case of Harry Poulin, charged by Mrs. Augusta Tiernan, with the paternity of her ten months old child, ended, persons interested in the outcome were today awaiting the verdict of Judge C. L. Ducomb, which is scheduled to be announced Saturday morning.

The hearings came to a close late yesterday; following completion of closing arguments by contending counsel.

The improbability of a woman in the position of Mrs. Tiernan bringing before the public the story of her acts actually occurred since her relations with another man, unless the plaintiff has done, was emphasized by the state's case. He asserted that it had been shown that Mrs. Tiernan's sole motive in bringing the court action was to make Poulin acknowledge the parentage of his own child.

DEFENSE ARGUMENT

In closing their case, the defense attorneys argued that the plaintiff had some other motive for seeking revenge against Poulin and maintained that the prosecution had not established that the baby might not be Professor Tiernan's offspring.

The attorneys attacked the testimony of Mrs. Tiernan that marital relations between her and Professor Tiernan had been broken off at the time of conception of the infant. They emphasized the point that Professor Tiernan had at first accepted the child as his own.

It has been indicated by both sides that if a decision is rendered against them Saturday by Judge Ducomb, they will take the case to a higher court. Mr. and Mrs. Tiernan were said to have left here last night for Chicago to consult with Dr. Albert Abrams, San Francisco specialist, concerning a blood test to establish definitely the paternity of the child.

In a demonstration held at the farm of John Bryant Tuesday morning seven farmers took part. Both of the farms are located in Perrytp.

FIRE LOOKOUT IN MOUNTAIN RANGE

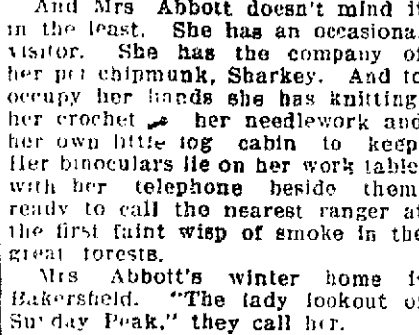

BAKERSFIELD, Cal. — Away up at the uttermost pinnacle of Sunday Peak, in the Greenhorn mountain range, sits Mrs. Jennie E. Abbott, on the lookout for fire in the vast stretches of timber stretching away as far as the horizon, far below and on every side of her lofty eyrie.

Three years Mrs. Abbott has been in the forest service—on Sherman Peak, in the Whitney range, in 1920 and 1921 and among the Greenhorns during the past summer.

"There's nothing about the work that a woman can't do," she says, "if she doesn't mind the loneliness."

And Mrs. Abbott doesn't mind it in the least. She has an occasional visitor. She has the company of her pet chipmunk, Sharkey. And to occupy her hands she has knitting, her crochet, her needlework and her own little log cabin to keep her binoculars in on her work table, with her telephone beside them, ready to call the nearest ranger at the first faint wisp of smoke in the great forests.

Mrs. Abbott's winter home is Bakersfield. "The lady lookout of Sunday Peak," they call her.

GIVES A TALK ON DREAD CATARRH

Plant Juice Man Says It Is Dangerous; Causes Decay of Bones; Deafness

MANY PEOPLE GIVEN RELIEF

Catarrh is a dangerous ailing condition, according to The Plant Juice Man, who is now in Lima at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square where he is introducing and explaining his unusual new remedy, Plant Juice.

"There's nothing about the work that a woman can't do," she says, "if she doesn't mind the loneliness."

And Mrs. Abbott doesn't mind it in the least. She has an occasional visitor. She has the company of her pet chipmunk, Sharkey. And to occupy her hands she has knitting, her crochet, her needlework and her own little log cabin to keep her binoculars in on her work table, with her telephone beside them, ready to call the nearest ranger at the first faint wisp of smoke in the great forests.

Mrs. Abbott's winter home is Bakersfield. "The lady lookout of Sunday Peak," they call her.

Juice, that is made from the juices of various forms of medicinal plant life.

"A great many people don't know it but catarrh is really dangerous," said The Plant Juice Man. "Many people believe that catarrh is simply a distressing and distasteful condition that a person must keep on enduring, once he gets it but this is not at all right because you do not have to continue to endure the distaste and misery of catarrh, since there is relief to be had nor is it simply a distressing condition but is dangerous."

"Catarrh often starts from a simple cold in the head. Before long, the symptoms begin to develop—a constant discharge of mucus from head, nose and throat, sometimes yellowish sometimes tinged with blood; weak, watery eyes; deafness; awful headaches and a ringing sound in the ears. The catarrh may gradually spread thru the system, affecting the stomach and other organs, and if allowed to go on uncorrected, it may cause the decay of facial bones so that an emaciated appearance will result."

"Plant Juice combats catarrh by acting as an eliminant, driving out the mucus and waste matters from the internal regions, and by strengthening and giving good tone to the system in general. According to good medicinal authority, Plant Juice contains ingredients that are useful in the relief of this catarrh of the mucous membranes—the membranes that line the inside of the ear, nose and throat, and the internal parts of the body as the skin lines the outside. And, also, a great many people have taken Plant Juice for catarrh and have said afterward that it gave them surprising relief. They said the mucus was relieved, hearing grew better, ringing sound in head left them and they felt improved generally."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne-sts and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

THE FACE IN THE MIRROR

Your face, does it wear the contented expression of good health, or are the features drawn and pallid? In the later case, your story is read by all who see you, and what woman of spirits wants to be pitied for her physical condition? There is a way to get the nervous, tired lines out of your face and the slump out of your body. The use of that standard remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, will strengthen the nerves and tone up the system to resist that excessive fatigue.—Adv.

DREAM REALIZED AT AGE 81

Woman Inherits Fortune After Waiting Lifetime

YEARS SPENT IN POVERTY

Attorney Brings Big Legacy to London Woman

By MILTON BRONNER
LONDON — (Special) — A fairy tale came true—

That's what her neighbors down on Copenhagen-st., one of the poorest and drabdest quarters of gray
London, say about the good fortune of Mrs. Mary Jane Young.

After 81 years of drudgery and poverty, she will spend her last days in ease, living on her share of a half million dollar inheritance.

Four years ago W. T. Hanks of Jersey City, N. J., died leaving the fortune. His nearest known relative was an Englishman, Ephraim Gregory, long since dead. The money therefore belonged to his children. But they could not be located.

After a long search, Howard S.
Harrington, a young American lawyer, got a clue which led to a coal mine district in Wales. There he found a son, John Charles Gregory, working as a collier.

DREAM COMES TRUE

He had lost track of his family.
But he thought he had a sister living somewhere in London. They finally traced Mrs. Young to her little home.

"When I was younger," she says,
"I used to dream about riches and happiness."

"I never had much of either. As time went on, I stopped dreaming.
It interfered with my work. My sister had died. My brother went away. I didn't see him for 44 years."

"Then suddenly he came with word of the fortune. All my hopes, dead for many years, were reborn."

"It seems that dreams come true —sometimes."

Mrs. Young is busy getting the documentary evidence to prove her right to the fortune. As soon as she completes these records, she will mail them to America, get her share of the inheritance—

"And keep on dreaming," she says. "If it isn't too late."

WOMAN PONZI PREPARES TO FACE HER CREDITORS

COLUMBUS — The alleged "woma million on unsecured notes, prepared today to return to her home town and face her creditors.

Fred S. Hatch, Columbus attor-

to leave her bed and will return to Pomeroy in a few days. She will make public a record of her financial activities, he said and settle with her creditors in "due time."

LIMA ROTARIANS TO TELL OF WORK FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN HERE BY CLUB

Ralph Austin, member of the Lima board of education, left after the meeting Tuesday night in Cincinnati to be in attendance at the semi-annual conference of the Ohio Society for Crippled Children, of which the Rotary club is sponsor.

Austin will present information regarding the local club's interest in crippled children. Before leaving he cast his vote favoring a contract with the Yellow Taxi Cab company to haul 16 Lima cripples to school this term at a cost of $350.

The conference will be a two-day session. George Mitchell of Coshocton, governor of District 22, International Rotary clubs, will speak.

FIRE PREVENTION TO BE TAUGHT

Campaign Will be Waged in Schools Next Week

Fire Prevention Week, October
2 to 9, will be celebrated in Lima to a greater extent than ever before, it was announced at the chamber of commerce Wednesday.

Precautions against fire will be taught in the schools under a plan devised by John C. Mack, chief of Lima fire department, rather than in the shops and factories where all year instruction is in force.

Speakers will be selected to go into the various schools and tell the children the few simple rules which will reduce the nation's $500,000,000 fire bill to a minimum, if followed.

Many of the local factories are now teaching their men the principles of fire protection, it is pointed out, and industrial losses are at a minimum. Most of the preventable loss is seen in homes.

By carrying the message to the children it will finally reach the home and by the next generation will show wonderful results. At the same time it is felt the immediate decrease in preventable fires will be seen.

A few volunteer speakers can be used for the campaign. Anyone desiring to aid in the work should apply at the chamber of commerce.

MERCHANT IS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

AKRON — Isadore Sindel, 45, Cleveland dry goods merchant, was killed in an automobile accident late Tuesday afternoon, in Portage-co on the Akron-Cleveland rd.

Samuel Sindel, his brother, identified the body at Billows morgue.
Investigation by Deputy Sheriff
Dave Thomas showed Sindel's car turned turtle when a front tire burst. He was pinned underneath and his chest crushed.

Dandruff Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when resting; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and giggling of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

THE EX-KAISER

PINK shirts and pink collars are being sported by the ex-kaiser, reports a London Daily Mail correspondent after a visit to Holland.

All around, Bill is perking up.

He is emerging from strict seclusion, leading a freer existence, and works daily in his garden in full view of anyone passing the castle home of the notorious exile.

Chopping and sawing wood? Not these days. Instead he is thinning out the fir trees along the road, clipping and trimming like a barber. His gang of helpers work with him, just inside the wire fence, in their shirt-sleeves. Occasionally even he is reported to strip off the coat of his gray suit.

"He talks incessantly"—but his talk is limited to trees and landscape gardening.

THE ex-crown prince "pays occasional visits to his father, and dashes all over the country in his new motor car. He spends much time playing lawn tennis and croquet, and he sees many visitors."

The story in Holland is that he would visit his father more often if it were not for the fact that Bill makes him help in the garden.

Recently he took a two weeks' vacation while plumbers installed a bath at his island home. What do you make of that, Watson? Well, Sherlock, it looks as if the ex-crown prince expects to spend another winter where he is. Important? To some extent, since he is not anticipating any immediate return to Germany.

IT'S getting along, now, near that historic date, Nov. 11. The war soon will have been over four years, tho "it seems like yesterday."

Four years ago, the slightest authenticated move by either the kaiser or the crown prince was "big news." Today interest in the Hohenzollerns is at low ebb, in America. Nevertheless, it is interesting to get a summary of how the two are reacting under exile.

The ex-kaiser sporting a pink shirt while playing as a gardener! The ex-crown prince elated because he is going to have a real bath-tub! Gosh, haven't times changed!

BEATING THE HIGH COAL PRICES

AT last a ray of hope for Lima coal consumers! Those who have viewed the soaring prices of fuel with alarm may heat their homes and save money if they follow the advice of an expert contained in a recent statement.

Coal consumption may be cut 43 per cent by careful firing, this authority declares. Efficiency in this matter may be gained in the furnace by careful banking of fires so that coal is burned from one side, the flame gradually eating into the supply. In this manner much of the gas generated is burned instead of being lost up the chimney.

If householders could gather all the fuel allowed to float into the air from Lima factory chimneys and inefficient heating plants, a big part of the fuel problem would be solved.

With coal at record high prices, it behooves domestic users to fire their furnaces in such a manner that every possible heat unit will be utilized. If they will do this and can save 40 per cent of their fuel, they can make money even tho coal costs 20 per cent more than formerly. It is worth trying.

SHADOW-SHOWS

WILL DAY gathers up a museum exhibition showing the historical development of the movie. The start? Chinese shadow shows, at least 4000 years ago.

The Chinese stretched a bull lock's hide parchment, thin and almost transparent, before a brightly burning lamp. On this parchment the audience saw shadows of wax figures, moved like puppets in front of the flame.

It took thousands of years to develop that lamp into the modern moving picture projecting machine and to evolve the moving shadows on the parchment into the figures that enchant us on the silver screen. Time amounts to very little, in the long history of progress.

Day's museum exhibition shows another of the early attempts at moving pictures. Sir John Herschell's "Thaumatrope," or spinning disk. A dog is drawn on one side of the disk, an empty kennel on the other. Hold it to the light. Revolve it. The dog appears to jump out of the kennel.

The thaumatrope was sold on the streets as a scientific toy. That's all that most people in those days thought the moving picture idea ever would amount to. It isn't long since people had the same notion about radio, flying machines and autos.

AMBITION

YOUR HEALTH COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL

Remove the Cause

(BY DR. R. H. BISHOP)

When one's blood contains less than the normal number of red corpuscles or lacks the normal amount of coloring matter in the red cells, we say he is anemic—has weak blood.

The common symptoms of anemia are general weakness, shortness of breath on exertion, tendency to dizzy spells, dull and more or less constant headaches, fluttering or palpitation or darting pains about the heart, nervous irritability, unsatisfying sleep, flimsy appetite, perhaps loss of normal color, paleness of the lips together with "that tired feeling."

The causes are well nigh innumerable, but foremost is bad air. Indoor life, air contaminated by gas stoves unattached to flues, lack of sunshine, digestive disturbances, improper food or small unnoticed hemorrhages are a few of the causes.

The treatment of anemia is, naturally, the removal of the cause. Fresh fruits and green vegetables offer the best or most assimilable food for the building of new blood.

We all know the necessity of sunlight for plant life. If you have ever picked up a board that has lain on the grass for some time you have undoubtedly noticed that the grass beneath the board is yellow or a very sickly green. So it is with human life. Sunlight is a powerful stimulant to the manufacture of blood corpuscles. Don't depend too much on blood tonics. Iron in the blood must come from natural foods, not from medicine. True, medicinal iron stimulates digestion, perhaps, and thus stimulates blood-making organs to activity, but it can hardly be counted on as an aid in the actual making of the corpuscles themselves.

Merry. Letters that you want to ship—or hide;
But the best of all epistles—the thought sounds mercenary—
Is the letter with the check inside.
Friends may write to calm and cheer you in a manner sympathetic.
And it's nice to have them write that way.
Other folks may spur you onward with their phrases energetic.
And — you may take their advice, some day;
But when things are going badly with no sign of getting better And you think the game of life's a snide,
It's then you get new courage from the truly helpful letter.
The letter with the check inside. (Copyright, 1922)

I like the friendly letter that is full of pleasant chatter,
Or the letter from the folks back home;
And the gushing girlish letter crammed with bright and slangy patter,
And the letter from across the foam;
I like the prim epistle from some dear old maiden auntie,
And a comrade's letter, true and tried;
But the best of all these missives, tho it otherwise is scanty,
Is the letter with the check inside.
There's a letter full of crosses (indicating loving kisses)
Which will give each lover's heart a thrill.
There's the letter (far from joyous any missive such as this is)
Which "begs to call attention to a bill";

LIGHT TURNED ON MORGAN'S LIFE

Great Financier at Once Autocratic and Soft-Hearted
DIDN'T CARE FOR MONEY
Real Man Revealed in Book by Church Rector

(B. B. C. FORBES)
NEW YORK. — (Special). — Americans love to read about certain business and financial giants. The list of those who have captured the public's imagination is, however, very short.
The list, according to my experience and observation, consists of: John D. Rockefeller.
The original J. P. Morgan.
Henry Ford.
Andrew Carnegie.
Edward H. Harriman.
Thomas A. Edison.
James J. Hill.
Charles M. Schwab.

The ins and outs of the careers of most of these men are well and widely known.
Perhaps the least understood man of the whole list was J. P. Morgan—least understood, that is, in the sense that the public have obtained extremely little intimate information about Morgan, the Man. Morgan was a sphinx in the matter of publicity. He held aloof from the people. His outward bearing was brusque, dominating, uninviting. He didn't grasp the power of public opinion and failed to handle it wisely.
The best insight afforded thus far into the heart, the mind, the make-up of Morgan the Man is given in a book issued this week, by the rector of the church of which Mr. Morgan was the chief vestryman for many years, Rev. Dr. William S. Ramsford, of St. George's Episcopal Church, New York.

This book presents certain phases of Morgan absolutely truthfully—I have made it my business during the last few years to gather a lot of information about Morgan from those who knew him best, and I know, therefore, that the characteristics brought out by the rector are true to life.
Morgan was at once autocratic and soft-hearted. He dominated every conference table, yet was not approachable to those who knew him. He made more money than any banker of his day, but didn't care a rap for money and used what came to him with almost reckless generosity and public-spiritedness. Distrusted and held at arm's length by most presidents of the United States, nevertheless Morgan rated patriotism as essential to good citizenship and never counted the cost when he saw opportunity to serve his country. He could, and sometimes did, display the ferocity of a lion, yet he was constantly concerning himself with the doing of kindly, thoughtful, gentle deeds. Unbending as a giant oak, there were times when he broke down and cried like a child. Although often seeking solitude even when was acting as host—on his yacht, for example—he was the most sociable of companions when the spirit moved him.

A stickler for dignity and "form" and all that sort of thing himself, he didn't hesitate to snash all etiquette by getting up and leaving during a function given by the German Emperor, an incident which threw the Kaiser's courtiers into consternation when the Kaiser asked that the great American banker be brought to him for an audience. "It appears," the trembling courtier told the Kaiser, "that when Herr Morgan decides to go to bed, he goes to bed."

Read these bits from E. S. Ramsford's chapter on Morgan: "Sunday morning, half an hour or more before the services began Mr. Morgan stood at the door, welcoming those he knew and did not know. He had extraordinary powers of inspiration and encouragement about him; when he chose to exercise them."
"He drew me aside one day and slipping a paper into my hands said: 'Don't work too hard; you ought to not have to worry about money. Don't thank me, and don't speak of it to any one, but your wife.' He had created a modest trust for me and mine."
"When again in 1920 I was much run down in health, he said to Mrs. Ramsford, 'He cannot do much longer what he has been doing. You have not a home of your own; don't you want one?' She said it was what we both longed for. 'Go and build it.' That was Pierpont Morgan."

"When Mrs. Ramsford lay for many weeks between life and death at Roosevelt Hospital, he, who at that time, was carrying a load of responsibility heavier, perhaps, than any other man in the United States carried, except its president, found time again and again to bring roses to her sick room, and would wait outside her door till the nurse permitted him to lay them by her bed. That too, was Pierpont Morgan."

Once the rector and his senior warden had terrific row. The rector wanted to democratize the vestry by adding to it a representative of the working class members of the congregation and certain others not of the capitalist class. Morgan, without warning, rose at a meeting of the vestry and proposed that its membership be reduced, and added that he wanted the motion passed without any debate. The rector called a halt on his overbearing chief warden. He wouldn't stand for any such arrogance even from Morgan. He proposed a counter motion and every one supported it except Morgan. Morgan, tremulously indignant, rose and said: "Rector, I'll never sit in this vestry again." Next day the rector received Morgan's written resignation. And for quite some time after that he was barely civil to the rector. However, in the end, Morgan came off his high horse.

Here is a surprising remark he once made to the rector: "I am not a good judge of men. My first shot is sometimes right. My second never is."
One of New York's foremost bankers once said to me: "Mr. Morgan's judgement often was very poor. But he was so tremendously honest and straightforward, so free from self-seeking and mercenaryness that everybody was willing to trust him and to accept his leadership."

TIME TO REPLANT GARDEN FLOWERS

County Agent Ridge Gives Advice on Their Care

Now is the time to move the old fashioned hardy perennials which during the past few years have become great favorites in Lima gardens, H. J. Ridge, farm agent, says.
Peonies and irises may be transplanted as the clumps grow, thus increasing the number one may have in his garden and the effectiveness of the display, Ridge points out.
Both of the plants are hardy and if properly transplanted will take root and grow very satisfactorily, he says. As the years go by the plants will become stronger.
Very often, however, the peonies will not flower the first or even the second year after they are transplanted, Ridge warns. During this time they are taking firm root and preparing for future years.
In transplanting, the soil should be worked to a depth of two feet and mixed with well-rotted manure which is at least a year old. Experiments have shown that fresh manure is too rich for the peony roots.

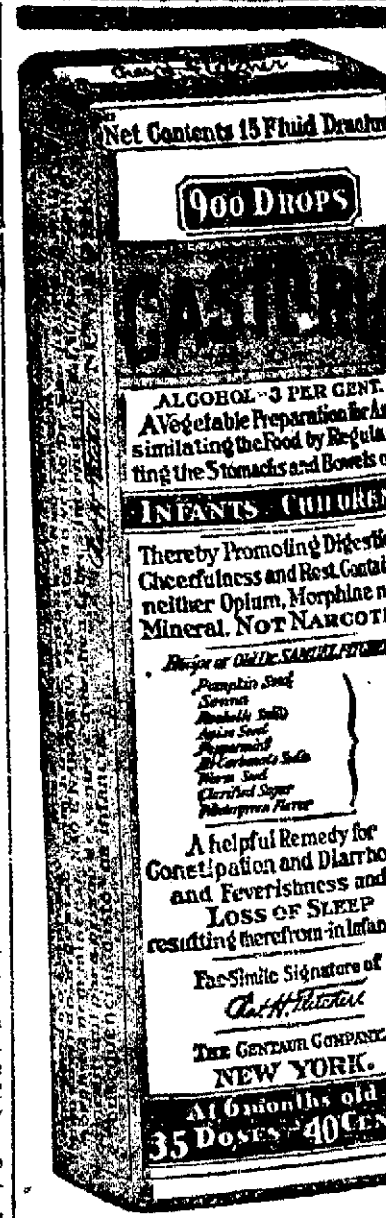

Another old time favorite which is being found more and more in the city and country gardens is the iris. Many improved varieties of the "poor man's orchid" are now available.
Best varieties of irises are the Madam Chereau, Pallida var Dalmatica, Black Prince, Queen of May, Darius, Mrs. H. Darwin, Lohengrin, Her Majesty, Traunkleib, Mad Paquette and Thorbeck.
Peony varieties should be selected from the Festiva, Maxima, Golden Harvest, Floral Treasure, Rubra Superba, Euphonia, Fragrans, Queen Victoria, Baroness Schroeder, Fells Crous, Couronne d'Or and Edulis Superba.

Stomach Troubles Are Due to Acidity

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are probably due to acidity of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.
Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.
To stop or prevent this pouring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of liquidated magnesia, a food and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.
An antacid, such as liquidated magnesia which can be obtained from any drugstore in either powder or tablet form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only liquidated magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.—Adv.

TIME TO REPLANT GARDEN FLOWERS

County Agent Ridge Gives Advice on Their Care

Now is the time to move the old fashioned hardy perennials which during the past few years have become great favorites in Lima gardens, H. J. Ridge, farm agent, says. Peonies and lilies may be transplanted as the clumps grow, thus increasing the number one may have in his garden and the effectiveness of the display, Ridge points out.

Both of the plants are hardy and if properly transplanted will take root and grow very satisfactorily, he says. As the years go by the plants will become stronger.

Very often, however, the peonies will not flower the first or even the second year after they are transplanted, Ridge warns. During this time they are taking firm root and preparing for future years.

In transplanting, the soil should be worked to a depth of two feet and mixed with well-rotted manure which is at least a year old. Experiments has shown that fresh manure is too rich for the peony roots.

Another old time favorite which is being found more and more in the city and country gardens is the iris. Many improved varieties of the "poor man's orchid" are now available.

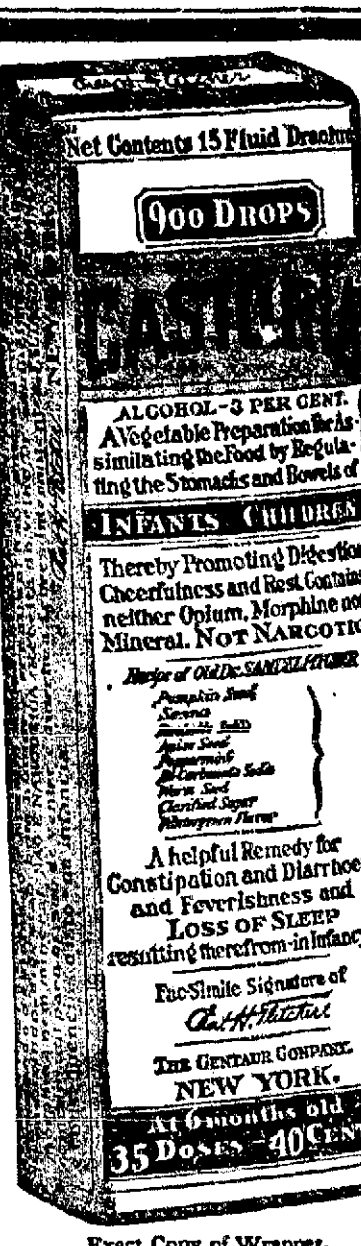

Best varieties of lilies are the Madam Chereau, Pallida var Delmatia, Black Prince, Queen of May, Darius, Mrs. H. Darwin, Lohengrin, Her Majesty, Traunkleib, Mad Paquette and Thorbeck.

Peony varieties should be selected from the Festiva, Maxima, Golden Harvest, Floral Treasure, Rubra Superba, Euphenia, Fragrans, Queen Victoria, Baroness Schroeder, Felix Crous, Couronne d'Or and Edulis Superba.

Stomach Troubles Are Due to Acidity

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

One defends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this pouring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of liquidated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This cures the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antacid, such as liquidated magnesia which can be obtained from any drugstore in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only liquidated magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.—Adv.

THEFT OF HORSE AND WAGON REPORTED BY ALGER VISITOR

Theft of a horse and wagon, the first report of its kind in many months, was complained of to Lima police Thursday night by George Black, Alger.

Black reported that his sorrel mare and spring wagon, with which he drove into the city Thursday, disappeared under the control of a stranger, after he had allowed it to stand in front of a S. Main-st. store for a few moments.

He saw the horse and wagon disappear down the street, he told police, as he came from the store.

THE EX-KAISER

PINK shirts and pink collars are being sported by the ex-kaiser, reports a London Daily Mail correspondent after a visit to Holland.

All around, Bill is perking up.

He is emerging from strict seclusion, leading a freer existence, and works daily in his garden in full view of anyone passing the castle home of the notorious exile.

Chopping and sawing wood? Not these days. Instead he is thinning out the fir trees along the road, clipping and trimming like a barber. His gang of helpers work with him, just inside the wire fence, in their shirt-sleeves. Occasionally even he is reported to strip off the coat of his gray suit.

"He talks incessantly"—but his talk is limited to trees and landscape gardening.

THE ex-crown prince "pays occasional visits to his father, and dashes all over the country in his new motor car. He spends much time playing lawn tennis and croquet, and he sees many visitors."

The story in Holland is that he would visit his father more often if it were not for the fact that Bill makes him help in the garden.

Recently he took a two weeks' vacation while plumbers installed a bath at his island home. What do you make of that, Watson? Well, Sherlock, it looks as if the ex-crown prince expects to spend another winter where he is. Important? To some extent, since he is not anticipating any immediate return to Germany.

IT'S getting along, now, near that historic date, Nov. 11. The war soon will have been over four years, tho "it seems like yesterday."

Four years ago, the slightest authenticated move by either the kaiser or the crown prince was "big news." Today interest in the Hohenzollerns is at low ebb, in America. Nevertheless, it is interesting to get a summary of how the two are reacting under exile.

The ex-kaiser sporting a pink shirt while playing as a gardener! The ex-crown prince elated because he is going to have a real bath-tub! Gosh, haven't times changed!

BEATING THE HIGH COAL PRICES

AT last a ray of hope for Lima coal consumers! Those who have viewed the soaring prices of fuel with alarm may heat their homes and save money if they follow the advice of an expert contained in a recent statement.

Coal consumption may be cut 43 per cent by careful firing, this authority declares. Efficiency in this matter may be gained in the furnace by careful banking of fires so that coal is burned from one side, the flame gradually eating into the supply. In this manner much of the gas generated is burned instead of being lost up the chimney.

If householders could gather all the fuel allowed to float into the air from Lima factory chimneys and inefficient heating plants, a big part of the fuel problem would be solved.

With coal at record high prices, it behooves domestic users to fire their furnaces in such a manner that every possible heat unit will be utilized. If they will do this and can save 40 per cent of their fuel, they can make money even tho coal costs 20 per cent more than formerly. It is worth trying.

SHADOW-SHOWS

WILL DAY gathers up a museum exhibition showing the historical development of the movie. The start? Chinese shadow shows, at least 4000 years ago.

The Chinese stretched a bull-lock's hide parchment, thin and almost transparent, before a brightly burning lamp. On this parchment the audience saw shadows of wax figures, moved like puppets in front of the flame.

It took thousands of years to develop that lamp into the modern moving picture projecting machine and to evolve the moving shadows on the parchment into the figures that enchant us on the silver screen. Time amounts to very little, in the long history of progress.

Day's museum exhibition shows another of the early attempts at moving pictures. Sir John Herschell's "Thaumatrope," or spinning disk. A dog is drawn on one side of the disk, an empty kennel on the other. Hold it to the light. Revolve it. The dog appears to jump out of the kennel.

The thaumatrope was sold on the streets as a scientific toy. That's all that most people in those days thought the moving picture idea ever would amount to. It isn't long since people had the same notion about radio, flying machines and autos.

AMBITION

YOUR HEALTH COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL Remove the Cause

(BY DR. R. H. BISHOP)

When one's blood contains less than the normal number of red corpuscles or lacks the normal amount of coloring matter in the red cells, we say he is anemic—has weak blood.

The common symptoms of anemia are general weakness, shortness of breath on exertion, tendency to dizzy spells, dull and more or less constant headaches, fluttering or palpitation or darting pains about the heart, nervous irritation, unsatisfying sleep, finicky appetite, perhaps loss of normal color, paleness of the lips together with "that tired feeling."

The causes are well nigh innumerable, but foremost is bad air. Indoor life, air contaminated by gas stoves unattached to flues, lack of sunshine, digestive disturbances, improper food or small unnoticed hemorrhages are a few of the causes.

The treatment of anemia is, naturally, the removal of the cause.

Fresh fruits and green vegetables offer the best or most assimilable iron for the building of new blood.

We all know the necessity of sunlight for plant life. If you have ever picked up a board that has lain on the grass for some time you have undoubtedly noticed that the grass beneath the board is yellow or a very sickly green. So it is with human life. Sunlight is a powerful stimulant to the manufacture of blood corpuscles.

Don't depend too much on blood tonics. Iron in the blood must come from natural foods, not from medicine. True, medicinal iron stimulates digestion, perhaps, and thus stimulates blood-making organs to activity, but it can hardly be counted on as an aid in the actual making of the corpuscles themselves.

GOOD NEWS

I like the friendly letter that is full of pleasant chatter,
Or the letter from the folks back home;
And the gushing girlish letter crammed with bright and slangy patter,
And the letter from across the foam;

I like the prim epistle from some dear old maiden auntie,
And a comrade's letter, true and tried;
But the best of all these missives, tho it otherwise is scanty,
Is the letter with the check inside.

There's a letter full of crosses (indicating loving kisses)
Which will give each lover's heart a thrill.

There's the letter (far from joyous any missive such as this is)
Which "begs to call attention to a bill";

Business letters, begging letters,
Pliers gay and letters

marry,
Letters that you want to show—or hide;
But the best of all epistles—the thought sounds mercenary—
Is the letter with the check inside.

Friends may write to calm and cheer you in a manner sympathetic,
And it's nice to have them write that way,
Other folks may spur you onward with their phrases energetic,
And — you may take their advice, some day;

But when things are going badly with no sign of getting better
And you think the game of life's a slide,
It's then you get new courage from the truly helpful letter,
The letter with the check inside.

LIGHT TURNED ON MORGAN'S LIFE

Great Financier at Once Autocratic and Soft-Hearted

DIDN'T CARE FOR MONEY

Real Man Revealed in Book by Church Rector

(B. B. C. FORBES)
NEW YORK. — (Special). —

Americans love to read about certain business and financial giants. The list of those who have captured the public's imagination is, however, very short.

The list, according to my experience and observation, consists of: John D. Rockefeller.

The original J. P. Morgan.

Henry Ford.

Andrew Carnegie.

Edward H. Harriman.

Thomas A. Edison.

James J. Hill.

Charles M. Schwab.

The ins and outs of the careers of most of these men are well and widely known.

Perhaps the least understood man of the whole list was J. P. Morgan—least understood, that is, in the sense that the public have obtained extremely little intimate information about Morgan, the Man. Morgan was a sphinx in the matter of publicity. He held aloof from the people. His outward bearing was brusque, dominating, uninviting. He didn't grasp the power of public opinion and failed to handle it wisely.

The best insight afforded thus far into the heart of the man is given in a book issued this week, by the rector of the church of which Mr. Morgan was the chief vestryman for many years, Rev. Dr. William S. Rainsford, of St. George's Episcopal Church, New York.

This book presents certain phases of Morgan absolutely truthfully—I have made it my business during the last few years to gather a lot of information about Morgan from those who knew him best, and I know, therefore, that the characteristics brought out by the rector are true to life.

Morgan was at once autocratic and soft-hearted. He dominated every conference table, yet was not approachable to those who knew him. He made more money than any banker of his day, but didn't care a rap for money and used what came to him with almost reckless generosity and public-spiritedness. Distrusted and held at arm's length by most presidents of the United States, nevertheless Morgan rated patriotism as essential to good citizenship and never counted the cost when he saw opportunity to serve his country. He could, and sometimes did, display the ferocity of a lion, yet he was constantly concerning himself with the doing of kindly, thoughtful, gentle deeds. Unbending as a giant oak, there were times when he broke down and cried like a child. Although often seeking solitude even when was acting as host—on his yacht, for example—he was the most sociable of companions when the spirit moved him.

A stickler for dignity and "form" and all that sort of thing himself, he didn't hesitate to smother all etiquette by getting up and leaving during a function given by the German Emperor, an incident which threw the Kaiser's courtiers into consternation when the Kaiser asked that the great American banker be brought to him for an audience. "It appears," the trembling courtier told the Kaiser, "that when Herr Morgan decides to go to bed, he goes to bed."

Read these bits from Dr. Rainsford's chapter on Morgan: "Sunday morning, half an hour or more before the services began Mr. Morgan stood at the door, welcoming those he knew and did not know. He had extraordinary powers of inspiration and encouragement about him when he chose to exercise them."

"He drew me aside one day and slipping a paper into my hands said: 'Don't work too hard; you ought to not have to worry about money. Don't thank me, and don't speak of it to any one, but your wife' He had created a modest trust for me and mine."

"When again in 1920 I was much run down in health, he said to Mrs. Rainsford, 'He cannot do much longer what he has been doing. You have not a home of your own; don't you want one? She said it was what we both longed for. Go and build it.' That was Pierpont Morgan."

"When Mrs. Rainsford lay for many weeks between life and death at Roosevelt Hospital, he, who at that time, was carrying a load of responsibility heavier, perhaps, than any other man in the United States carried, except its president, found time again and again to bring roses to her sick room, and would wait outside her door till the nurse permitted him to lay them by her bed. That too was Pierpont Morgan."

Once the rector and his senior warden had terrific row. The rector wanted to democratize the vestry by adding to it a representative of the working class members of the congregation and certain others not of the capitalist class. Morgan, without warning, rose at a meeting of the vestry and proposed that its membership be reduced, and added that he wanted the motion passed without any debate. The rector called a halt on his overbearing chief warden. He wouldn't stand for any such arrogance even from Morgan. He proposed a counter motion and every one supported it except Morgan. Morgan, tremulously indignant, rose and said: "Rector, I'll never sit in this vestry again. Next day the rector received Morgan's written resignation. And for quite some time after that he was barely civil to the rector. However, in the end, Morgan came off his high horse."

Here is a surprising remark he once made to the rector: "I am not a good judge of men. My first shot is sometimes right. My second never is."

One of New York's foremost bankers once said to me: "Mr. Morgan's judgement often was very poor. But he was so tremendously honest and straight-forward, so free from self-seeking and mercenary that everybody was willing to trust him and to accept his leadership."

LIMA GETS NAME ON NEW MAPS

City at Intersection of Three National Trails

When a motorist purchases a map printed by the National Motorists Association in the future showing trans-continental automobile routes, Lima will be found to occupy a prominent place.

Recognition of the new Muncie-Lima-Fremont Way by the National Motorists Association assures promise that all maps distributed thru the organization will show the new cut off between Iyidian-polis and Buffalo.

Lima is now the intersecting point of three big trails. The branch of the Dixie Highway from Detroit to Cincinnati; the Harding Highway, and the new Muncie-Lima-Fremont Way.

Efforts are being made by Joe C. Hartline, president of the Lima Automobile Club to have all automobile maps printed by Rand & McNally, map-makers, show the new trail.

A meeting of the M-L-F Way association will be held in Findlay, October 12, Manager James I. Heffner announced Wednesday. Invitations were sent out for the meeting by the Findlay Chamber of Commerce.

Directors of the organization have elected A. Herzog, St. Mary's blanket manufacturer, delegate to the Ohio Good Roads Federation meeting.

TIME TO REPLANT GARDEN FLOWERS

County Agent Ridge Gives Advice on Their Care

Now is the time to move the old fashioned hardly perennials which during the past few years have become great favorites in Lima gardens, H. J. Ridge, farm agent, says.

Peonies and irises may be transplanted as the clumps grow, thus increasing the number one may have in his garden and the effectiveness of the display, Ridge points out.

Both of the plants are hardy and if properly transplanted will take root and grow very satisfactorily, he says. As the years go by the plants will become stronger.

Very often, however, the peonies will not flower the first or even the second year after they are transplanted, Ridge warns. During this time they are taking firm root and preparing for future years.

In transplanting, the soil should be worked to a depth of two feet and mixed with well-rotted manure which is at least a year old. Experiments has shown that fresh manure is too rich for the peony roots.

Another old time favorite which is being found more and more in the city and country gardens is the iris. Many improved varieties of the "poor man's orchid" are now available.

Best varieties of irises are the Madam Chereau, Pallida var Dalmatica, Black Prince, Queen of May, Darius, Mrs. H. Darwin, Lohengrin, Her Majesty, Tiaukleeb, Mad Paquette and Thorbeck.

Peony varieties should be selected from the Festiva, Maxima, Golden Harvest, Floral Treasure, Rubra Superba, Euphonia, Fragrans, Queen Victoria, Baroness Schroeder, Felix Crous, Couronne d'Or and Edulis Superba.

Stomach Troubles
Are Due to Acidity

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are probably minor cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.
Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.
To stop or prevent this source of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a small quantity of Bismarck's Magnesia, a food and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This restores the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy.
An antacid such as Bismarck's Magnesia which can be obtained from any form enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificially digested Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: I am very unhappy. I do not love my husband and I never did. I married him simply to please my parents. We have been married for three years and he has been good to me always, but I do not seem to be able to love him. We have a little boy one year old. Do you think it would be wrong for me to take my baby and go away? I have a lot of friends who think I am entitled to some happiness.

YES, you are entitled to your happiness but perhaps it has not occurred to you that you do not have only yourself to consider. You have your husband and your child and certainly you could not attain happiness at their expense.

It is unfortunate that you permitted yourself to marry against your wishes but since that is a thing of the past, which cannot be undone, I am not going to dwell on it. Instead of trying to "patch up" the past we shall endeavor to brighten the future.

Your husband has been good and kind to you. Certainly you cannot dislike one who has been considerate of you and who has probably silently suffered much because he has not received the love and devotion, which is due him. Your husband has given you his best. Surely you will not shirk your duty toward him.

Your husband has the same right to your child as you yourself. For you to take your child and leave him would be robbing him of the dearest thing in the world to him. The best way for you to find happiness is with your child and husband.

Dear Miss Smart: (1) I am a girl, going on 15 and would first like to know if I am too young to go with my mother and father to think so but I don't. I am very much in love with a boy and he seems to think a lot of me but I am not allowed to go with him. What would be your kind advice? (2) Do you approve of Russian dances? (3) Should girls of my age wear jewelry for winter? (4) What will take off freckles? (5) Should one go to public dances? (6) Why? (7) Is rouge bad on complexion? (8) Do you approve of lip stick? (9) How is my writing?

ANNIE S. (1) I agree with your parents. You are very young to go with the boys. When you are older you will appreciate the fact that your parents have reared you properly. Just now, of course, it is natural for you to think it "perfectly ridiculous and uncalled for" for your parents to refuse to permit you to go with the boys when "all the other girls" do. Later on, however, you will understand and will thank them for it.

(2) Russian boots are very chic and attractive but I doubt very much if they will ever become as popular as galoshes because they are not as practical nor as reasonable.

(3) Many girls of your age have worn oxfords and woolen hose for the past two winters and will probably continue to do so this winter. (4) Try the following for freckles: Two ounces of buttermilk or sour milk, two drams of grated horseradish and six drams of cornmeal. Spread this mixture between two muslin and allow it to lay on for affected parts as long as possible at night, care being taken to keep it away from the eyes. (5) Public dances are regular "traps" for girls, where every type of individual may feel his or her privilege to be present. Of course, there may be harm in attending affairs of this kind but many of these dances are not considered the proper kind for young people to attend. (6) No, not if care is taken in removing it with a good cold cream each night before retiring. However, a young girl of 15 should not be thinking about rouge. (7) No, because the majority of girls and women do not know how to use it. They use no discretion but dab it on as the they were Indian warriors making ready for a dance or some gala affair. (8) Very good.

Dear Miss Smart: (1) Where can I buy Bristol board in Lima? (2) Can you give me the addresses of syndicates that purchase comic strip cartoons?

A CARTOONIST. (1) At any book store. (2) King Features Syndicate, 241 W. 58th St. New York City. United Features Service, World Building, New York City and H. E. A. Service, 1203 W. Third St., Cleveland.

HOW TO MAKE CHOWDERS OF MANY KINDS

(BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH)
Chowders, as we know them, are quite distinctively American, although European countries have fish stews. These stews are similar to the chowder known as New York or Connecticut chowder, in which many different vegetables are used and the whole flavored with thyme.

The New England chowder is made with potatoes, pork, onions, crackers, fish and salt and pepper for seasoning. The chowder was a one-kettle dish, and should be such, always, as it says, "the housewife many a time and is hearty enough to be a 'one-dish meal'."

When one lives inland and cannot obtain fresh fish, corn makes a good chowder and the recipe given below may be used, substituting two cups of fresh or canned corn for the fish.

NEW ENGLAND FISH CHOWDER
2 lbs. fish, (haddock, cod or whitefish).
2 medium sized onions sliced.
1 1/2 teaspoons salt.
Pepper.
3 tablespoons flour.

1 1/2 quarts boiling water.
1 pint milk.
6 crackers.

Remove the bones and skin from fish, and put them into the boiling water and cook 20 minutes, strain. In the same kettle, try out the fat pork, which has been cut into dice, being careful not to brown the fat.

On this put a layer of potatoes, onions and fish. Sprinkle with half the flour, salt and a bit of pepper. Repeat until all material is used. Add water strained from the bones and skin. Cover, and cook until the potatoes are soft. Add milk, crackers which have been split or broken into large pieces, and when milk is hot the chowder is ready to serve.

With chowder serve crackers and pickles, or a tart, crisp salad. Chowder reheated is quite as good as when first served.

SPANISH INFLUENCE
At a fashionable wedding the bride made wore cream-lace. Spanish mantillas draped over high combs and caught at one side with deep crimson roses. They carried bouquets of the roses.

TRIMMINGS
Orchid is much used for trimmings, particularly worn about the waist sash fashion. Often it is combined with flowers of metal ribbons, and frequently unique color combinations are evolved.

KNITTED SUITS
Knitted suits, both in wool and silk, are seen as the fall season advances. Tan and gray seem to be the most popular colors, and frequently shoes, hat and gloves carry out the same tone.

LEARN A WORD A DAY
TODAY'S word is—PUSILLANIMITY.

It is pronounced — pus-ill-an-ee-ti, with accent slightly upon the first and more strongly upon the fourth syllable.

It means — weakness of spirit, cowardice, destitution of manly strength and firmness.

It comes from — a combination of the Latin words "pusillus" meaning "very little" and "animus," "the mind."

It is used like this—"Editorial writers generally agree that the present serious situation of Constantinople is due mainly to the pusillanimity of the European governments' policy there."

Sally on Way to Win Beauty Contest

By Zoe Beckley

START HERE TODAY

MARTIN, a photographer and friend of SALLY, an orphan girl, has taken her photograph and sent it to a beauty contest. Sally is employed in an ice cream parlor, having tied the results of a new-rich mistress, the woman's son.

STANLEY, had befriended her. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (BY ZOE BECKLEY)

What really had prompted Martin to send Sally's photograph to the beauty contest was pride in his work. It had hardly entered his mind that the picture could win.

The most he hoped for was that it might be printed in the big city paper with the line beneath, "Martin, Photographer, Branchville, Ia."

He was closing his studio one evening, hurrying to take Sally for dinner at the Commercial House (she always said her biggest treat was eating a meal someone else had cooked) when the station "back" hailed in front of his building.

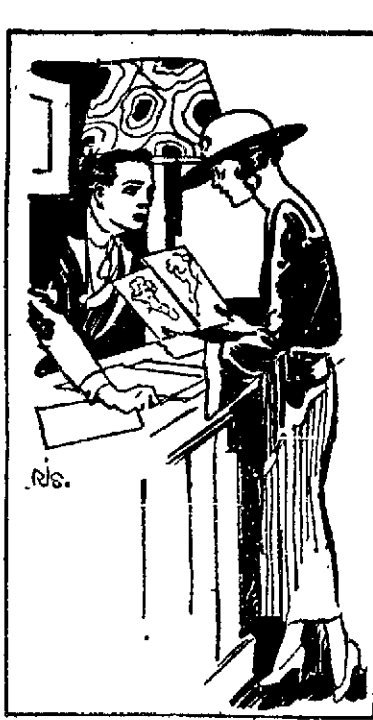

A young woman with the unmistakable air of big town in her smart and sensible dress and her crisp air of knowing exactly what she would do next, stepped out, glanced at the display window and addressed Martin:

"I believe you're just the man I want to see. You're Alan Martin, aren't you?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, I'm from the American News Syndicate. I think you entered Miss Angela Rose in our beauty contest?"

"Yes, ma'am," again answered

ANGELA ROSE.

"CONVINCE ME THAT THIS BUSINESS DOESN'T MEAN DANGER FOR THAT GIRL."

Martin, but with widened eyes and a more alert manner. The girl became a shade more cautious.

"She may have won. She's among the survivors anyhow. I have been sent to decide and report. Where can I see Miss Rose?"

"Won't you step into my studio," said Martin politely. He thought fast as the young woman went briskly up the stairs.

He was almost as excited as the he himself had won the contest. The prospect of untold developments was so dazzling that he wanted to think matters over.

For one thing it meant Sally would be leaving for the big city. Did he want her to do that?

A moment later he was ashamed of his selfishness. To shut Sally off from her great chance because he would miss her!

"What—would be ahead of Sally of Miss Rose?" he asked cautiously of the newspaper woman as she stood turning over his show photographs on the glass case, among them Sally's.

"Well, that depends—would depend on her. But I'm not sure she's chosen yet. I really must see her. Then I could talk it over personally with her—"

"Listen, lady—" Martin wasn't exactly sure how you addressed a stylish newspaper reporter of the female gender from great New York, but he was very earnest about Sally, "you'll have to convince me that this business doesn't mean danger for that girl."

"I've read about the Manhattan Frolics and I hear there are as many girls hurt by them as made. I guess you won't deny that?"

The reporter was expressively silent. She knew he was right and hadn't the heart to misrepresent things. She liked Martin. And she knew the world.

WEAK STORIES HANDICAP HAMILTON, COMEDIAN

HAVING nominated Lloyd Hamilton for a place in the hall of comic immortals, it is more pleasant to roll logs for him than to speak disparagingly of his candidacy for that honor.

Hamilton plugged along for years without gaining recognition because no other comedian could have done as well in his pictures as he did. There was nothing that called forth his distinctive talent.

Then he made "The Rain Maker" and "Poor Boy." No other comedian could have played Hamilton's role in these pictures quite as well as he. He was recognized as the comic king.

Those comics were more than a series of pictures of unrelated action. They told a story. They laid a premise for laughs.

SHORT SHAVINGS

When heat was turned on in the city hall Tuesday one of the radiators began to knock. Ruth Keating looked it over and decided there was too much water in it and called upon Mayor Harold Cunningham for assistance.

A search of the office revealed a glass pitcher, which had not been used since Harry Osgood and Vaughn Miller "set up" the commission with roasting glasses of root beer. It was pressed into service.

Mayor Cunningham entered into the work with his customary vigor and drew several pitchers of hot, and rapidly growing hotter, water from the radiator.

Suddenly there was a loud crack and the beautiful glass pitcher was broken. The water had become too hot for the fragile material. No more would the pitcher aid in quenching the thirst of hard working commissioners.

Another search brought a tin can to light. "I should have used this in the first place," Mayor Cunningham said as he carefully drew some more water from the radiator.

Dick Watkins, motor cop, tells of a constable who caught a speeding automobile at Delphos.

He couldn't find the mayor. So he let them go. Then he chased after the car, brought it back, and hailed the driver before a squire.

The reason he brought the car back, he says, is that when he let it go the first time two girls in the car looked at him and shouted, "Razzberries!"
